Rabbi's Message

Last week, I had the distinct pleasure of witnessing the ordination of four remarkable rabbis in Jerusalem. They were a special class, which included the 100th ordinee of the Israeli rabbinical program at the Hebrew Union College – Jewish Institute of Religion.

My father, ordained in this very program in 1981, was the second.

It is amazing what can happen over a span of (give-or-take) thirty-five years. In 1980, when Rabbi Mordechai Rotem was the first – and then, also the only – ordinee of the program, Reform, or progressive Judaism was just a tiny and fledgling idea and movement. Today, the progressive community boasts some fifty congregations and Jewish Community Centers throughout the state, two kibbutzim, and a whole host of rabbis, a few of whom even grew up in the movement, who serve a variety of needs. Reform Judaism is alive and well throughout Israel. While certainly the movement faces some very real struggles, this day was a tremendous opportunity to take in much of the achievements of nearly four-decades, and to evaluate where the movement, and its leadership, would like to see things go.

Today's Israeli Reform rabbis, represent a diverse group. There are those second generation rabbis, like Liora Ezrachi-Vered, who, ordained last week, is the child, grandchild, and great-grandchild of a rabbi. Her mother, Rabbi Na'amah Kelman-Ezrachi, is Dean of students at the Jerusalem campus, and was also the first woman to be ordained in Israel. Then, there are those like Rabbi Nir Barkin, who, while serving as a Shali'ach, or emissary, from Israel to the Jewish community of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, connected with Reform Judaism, and returned to Jerusalem where he studied and was ordained at HUC-JIR Jerusalem more than a decade ago. Rabbi Dr. Yehoyada Amir came to the program as a professor in Jewish thought and was ordained some eight years after that, while David Laor, another of this year's ordinees, made Aliyah from Mexico, and made Israel- and progressive Judaism – his home and his mission.

In addition to serving in congregations, Israeli Reform Rabbis serve as teachers, spiritual guides, and chaplains. Some, like Rabbi Me'ir Azari, who has served as rabbi of the Beit Daniel center in Tel Aviv for the past twenty-five years, have partnered with local leadership in order to promote progressive Judaism within their cities. Both Rabbi Azari and Ron Huldai, mayor of Tel Aviv, were the recipients of honorary doctorate degrees at this ceremony, for their work on behalf of the movement. Together, they remind the residents of Tel Aviv that there is an alternative to the Ultra-Orthodoxy.

While Israel has a long way to go, especially as is evidenced by the events of earlier that day, when Reform leaders were attacked once again in attempt to hold a pluralistic prayer service at the Kotel, there is also much to celebrate. This ordination brought together Reform Jewish leaders from the past forty years; my father and his colleagues, whose work helped cement the presence of the Israel Movement for progressive Judaism, as well as the leaders of today, who continue to work on the front lines in order to ensure the continued presence of a liberal, egalitarian approach to Judaism, which so much of Israel's population suggests resonates with it. I invite you to celebrate this momentous occasion by looking at the link below and supporting the Progressive and Masorti (Conservative) movements and their work.

President's Message

Safety and Security...

Many of us grew up in a time where safety was not an everyday concern. We would leave our front doors open, our garage door and cars unlocked. We did not think twice about being in a crowd or getting on an airplane. Sadly, those days are gone.

Today all we hear about is violence and acts of terror. Everyday there is a shooting in Chicago and there are terrorist attacks in the United States and around the world. We think that these events will not happen in our community, but we need to be vigilant to ensure that they don't.

We lock our doors and garages at home, we don't answer our doors for strangers. We need to make sure that we do the same at temple. We have security in place, we need to use it. An alarm system was installed several years ago. Last year a security system was installed for the front door. We have monitors in the office and back hallway where you can see who is at the front door, talk to them and allow entry. We have also posted emergency phone numbers on charts throughout the building. Please use these tools. If you are having a meeting at the temple, make sure doors are locked and that you identify all entrants to the building and are comfortable in allowing entrance. We want everyone at BYBS to not just feel safe, but BE SAFE.

I hope that everyone has gone to our merger website and registered. The first meeting of the Merger Committee has taken place and minutes are posted on the website. All congregants of BYBS and CAE can have access to the website, will get the exact same updates and wording and at the same time. As always, if you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

Happy Chanukah and a Happy and Healthy New Year

Sherman Friedman

The Adult Education Committee would like to express its appreciation to everyone who contributed to the success of the adult education programs which took place on three Sunday afternoons in October and November. Barry Bayer asked Maggie Anton to come to BYBS at minimal expense to us. Ellen Kahn wrote a request for proposal for a mini-grant to bring Fern Schumer Chapman and her mother Edith Westerfeld to BYBS. Sisterhood provided baked goods for the Anton and Chapman programs. Cathy sent out e-mail blasts to promote all three programs and Bob set up the Social Hall and the Chapel to meet our needs.

Finally, we would like to thank the Jewish United Fund/Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Chicago for making mini-grants available so that Karen Kaplan and Fern Schumer Chapman could speak to us. We could not have afforded to host them without this financial support.

Beit AmiChai News

December will be short on the school calendar but filled with fun activities!

On Sunday, December 3rd we will have Sunday School at Temple Beth-El in Munster. Marilyn Price and her wonderful world of puppets will be performing.

On December 8th, we will have a Family Shabbat service at 7:00 p.m. at Temple Anshe Sholom and the Youth Choir will be singing at services.

During Sunday School on December 17th our students will have their Chanukah celebration.

Winter break will be from December 24th - January 7, 2018. During that time we won't have Hebrew School, Sunday School or High School Havurah. We will resume classes on Wednesday, January 10th.

Thank you to all who have supported our school fundraisers, we greatly appreciate it!

And a special thank you to our 6th and 7th grade teacher Becky Moeckler for coordinating this years Chanukah Mitzvah project. Many families in need of a little help at the holidays truly benefit from this wonderful mitzvah.

As Chairman of the November 5 JUF mini-grant, I would like to express my appreciation to everyone who baked, helped or attended "Edith's Immigration Journey: A Refugee's Story of Prejudice and Empathy." The turnout was tremendous. We welcomed a total of 65 people! The vast majority of the evaluations completed were extremely positive, including comments such as fantastic, emotional, educational, important, and well-presented. A special thanks to my committee: Penny Shnay and Laura Eisenwasser.

Sisterhood News

Wishing everyone a Chanukah Sameach!

Hard to believe Chanukah is around the corner with such mild weather...I am not complaining.

Sisterhood has been busy, October 26th, seven of us attended the Great Big Challah Bake at The Bernard Weinger JCC, in Northbrook Illinois. While the seven were baking 5 of us were at OSRUI for WRJ Midwest Leadership weekend. Blair Marks President of WRJ who is from Marietta Georgia, Temple Kol Emeth lead several workshops on Leadership and Membership. Hearing her speak was certainly a highlight for me.

In November as part of the Gently Used Jewelry Sale we held our Chanukah sale and gift shop clearance, both events were very successful. We are sad to no longer see our gift shop, but are anxious to see how that space will be re-purposed.

On December 3rd myself, Gayle Weil and Carole Fefferman are off to Boston along with 6000 Jews for the URJ Biennial. There are over 400 workshops to choose from on topics from Social action to membership and everything in between. Elizabeth Warren will be speaking as are other educators from all over the United States, Canada and Israel. We are anxious to bring back new ideas.

CAE & BYBS are jointly hosting The Annual Chanukah Dinner and candle lighting ceremony on Thursday, December 14, 6:00 pm. There is nothing better than an evening of latkes and community! Cost is $15/adult and $6 for children. Don't forget to bring your chanukiah and your appetite. RSVP by December 8 to your temple office.

Save the date: February 16, 2018 we are hosting our Sisterhood Shabbat.

Save the date: February 25, 2018 Ronald Balson will be here to discuss the 3rd book in his series, Karolina's Twins.

Many have expressed an interest in our Theatre Group, so why not make it official. Today I contacted North Shore Center for the Performing Arts. On the evening of December 28th David Broza will be performing. Group tickets are available and car pooling has never been a problem.

The Color Purple is coming to the Auditorium Theatre. I have reserved tickets for July 29th matinee performance.

Waitress will be presented at the Palace Theatre I have booked tickets for the July 22nd matinee. If any of these shows sparks your interest please e-mail me and I will sign you up.
